Contact Relationship Management System (CRM)

Database Solution for Back Office Management

CRM is a complete affordable contact management system which will create a centralised repository of customer data that sits neatly alongside Microsoft Office and is accessible through applications your employees use every day.

This is a CRM that works – the way you do, the way your business needs it to and the way IT wants it to. Purple-I understood, when developing CRM, that it is always work that comes first, not technology. Because CRM is designed with the familiar user interface of Microsoft Office products, even new tasks and processes are mastered quickly.

CRM delivers full sales, purchasing, and contact management capability in a fast, flexible and affordable manner. Employees can access sales, purchasing and contact information to make sales decisions, run marketing campaigns, schedule resource, solve customer issues and get strategic views of the business through extensive reporting.
